FiGee
FINE GOODS

CHAPTER 7 CUBAN RUM 1948

76 Year Old Single Cask | 2025 Release

* Limit to two per person * Chapter 7 presents a rare 76-year-old single-cask Cuban rum from an undisclosed distillery. This remarkable spirit is a liquid archive from Cuba's pre-revolutionary era. Distilled in 1948 - twelve years before the island's nationalisation - in a distillery whose existence remains a secret. This bottling offers collectors and connoisseurs the opportunity to experience the artistry of Cuban rum-making from a bygone era. This release was selected and bottled for FiGee Fine Goods in Switzerland. • Hand-bottled in Paisley, Scotland. • This is an exclusive limited edition of only 108 bottles.

Tasting notes

Color

Dark mahogany

Aroma

Dark spice cake, cigar box, oak, juicy raisons, matured tobacco, blackforest cake, old old rum of molasses a little olive, after approx. 20 mins aromas of old sherry/port emerge

Taste

Rich, dark oak, very old tawny port, dried figs and prunes, dried mango, coffee, hint of olive, nuttiness, it's very smooth and fresh even compared to much younger rums. Super well balanced.

Finish

It's perfectly balanaced and the finish is exrtremely long, similar to a very old tawny port, almost a little saltiness with a long oakey finish that leaves warmth on the pallet and gums. Not overpowering. Just perfect.

Chapter 7 Cuban Rum 1948, is part of the SPIRIT LIBRARY. A collection that showcases experimental whiskies and unique spirits from around the world. These limited releases are designed for curious audiences and are available exclusively through select retailers and importers. The label is emblematic of a book with no descriptive details about its contents. Instead, each label features the name and Volume number, accompanied by vibrant, one-of-a-kind book-marbling imagery. This decorative technique involves manipulating pigments on a liquid surface to create intricate patterns, reflecting a centuries-old practice with cultural significance worldwide.