

NEW YARMOUTH 1994 | 26 YEARS

Wild Parrot Rum Cask | 2020 Release

New Yarmouth 1994 by The Wild Parrot is a 26-year Jamaican single cask from the noted 1994 vintage, bottled in 2020 at its natural cask strength of 68.1%. Cask WP94681 yielded 242 bottles, making this a narrow, high-proof reading of one barrel rather than a blended house style. AGEING: the rum was matured for a long period before bottling, with the long tropical period shaping a firm, dry structure. The confirmed points are New Yarmouth origin, molasses base, single cask, natural strength and no sweetened profile. SERVING: pour a small measure into a tulip glass and let it rest before the first sip. Add a few drops of still water if the strength needs opening. At the table, pair with roasted cashews, aged Gouda or a medium-bodied Nicaraguan cigar.

Tasting notes

Color

Deep straw gold.

Aroma

Herbal lift, star anise, fresh mint, liquorice root, yellow fruit and polished oak.

Taste

Concentrated and dry: anise, medicinal herbs, ripe pear, resin, salt and firm cask spice.

Finish

Long, taut finish with liquorice, mint, dry wood, pepper and saline heat.

NEW YARMOUTH New Yarmouth is one of Jamaica's less public-facing rum names, closely linked to the Appleton and J. Wray & Nephew orbit. The distillery is better known through independent bottlings than through official releases, which is why single casks from the 1994 vintage carry such interest. The profile often shows a more austere, herbal and structured side of Jamaican rum, distinct from the broader fruit-led image of the island.
