

RENEGADE WESTERHALL

Pre-Cask Rum | Column Still | Single Farm Origin

Renegade presents Westerhall, an unaged, fresh cane juice rum made from a sucrose-rich variety of cane called Clean Ester. The cane grows in the southernmost of Renegade's farms where moisture-retentive soils, surrounded by coconut and cocoa trees, provide ideal conditions and a fertile lush terroir. Each Renegade bottling comes from a single farm. Their rums are made with fresh, pure sugar cane juice as a primary ingredient. Natural in colour and texture, unsweetened and non-chill-filtered.

Tasting notes

About Renegade Rum Distillery The distillery is located in Grenada, a small, mountainous island of volcanic origin, characterised by tropical moist forest vegetation, located about 90 miles north of Trinidad and Venezuela. Renegade Rum Distillery is an industry-changing project from the man behind the renaissance of Islay's Bruichladdich single malt whisky and Ireland's groundbreaking, terroir-driven Waterford Distillery. His vision is to produce the most profound rum the world has ever seen focused on the cane, terroir and provenance. Renegade Rums are modern masterpieces carefully designed to bring out the individuality of terroir, the purity of long fermentation and thoughtful distillation.
