GLEN GRANT 1998 / 23 YO

Samaroli | Cask No.6440 | 2021 Release

Whether you're an avid whisky collector or a connoisseur, this bottle is the perfect choice for anyone looking to add something truly exceptional to their collection. Samaroli presents a classic Speyside single malt from the renowned Glen Grant distillery. Distilled in 1998, matured for 23 years in a Single Cask #6440 and bottled in 2021 in Scotland. The Glen Grant Distillery is renowned for its signature light and elegant whisky style. Founded in 1839, it is one of the oldest distilleries in Speyside and the only remaining single malt distillery to still bear the name of its founders.

Tasting notes

Aroma

Hints of oregano, mint & raisins.

Taste

Spicy and dusty tips with pink pepper in the background, followed by floral and fruity tones.

About Independent Bottler Samaroli: Samaroli is probably Italy's most renowned independent bottler, considered a visionary by most. Impeccable taste and an eye for aesthetics have given numerous of his bottlings a worthy place in the pantheon of whisky and rum giants. Today the production is under Antonio Bleve's direction, who has collaborated with Samaroli for many years and shares the passion and philosophy of the house. Antonio Bleve continues his quest for exceptional casks, relying on the brand's historical relationships and new interactions, making their latest bottlings increasingly in demand.
