About Independent Bottler Samaroli Samaroli is an independent bottler of rare rums and whiskies from around the world. The company was founded by Silvano Samaroli in 1968, who at the time was the only non-British or non-Scottish person in the trade. His passion, knowledge and experience of almost 50 years of individually selecting the best casks allowed him to expose the complexity of each of the spirits, maintaining their harmonious balance and outstanding taste. The maturation is carried out in Scotland, where the climate (cooler than in the Caribbean) enables longer ageing and consequently cleaner more elegant rums. Every bottle is numbered and dated. The company is led today by Antonio W. Blevé who after a long time of collaboration and love for the company's philosophy, has continued to deliver outstanding unique releases of single cask whiskies and rums.
