SPRINGBANK 21 YEARS OLD | 2025

Campbeltown Single Malt | Scotch Whisky

Springbank 21 Years Old, 2025 release, is the deeper, sweeter spirit of Campbeltown: an annual limited bottling sitting between the standard 10yo's character and the older 30yo's tertiary richness. MATURATION: a four-cask vatting of 65% Port, 25% bourbon, 5% rum and 5% Sherry; drawn from mixed peated and unpeated malt at the Campbeltown stillhouse, rested in dunnage warehouses. Bottled at 46% volume, non-chill-filtered, natural colour. SERVING: a sipper for after dinner, paired with aged Comté, mature Cheddar or fruit cake. With cigars, look to a medium-strength Honduran or Nicaraguan corojo, a Punch Gran Puro reads well. Worth letting the dram open in the glass for ten minutes before the first sip.

Tasting notes

Color

Old gold with copper highlights.

Aroma

Medjool dates, sticky toffee, treacle, stewed plums and blood-orange zest; delicate peat smoke at the back.

Taste

Peat smoke, smoked fig, caramelised brown sugar, cigar box and blackberry; layered Iberico-ham savouriness underneath.

Finish

Long, mineral, salted-smoke finish; sweetness fades cleanly into a briny mineral depth.

SPRINGBANK DISTILLERY Founded 1828 in Campbeltown by the Mitchell family, fifth generation today, one of the last Scottish distilleries still in founding-family hands. Springbank performs every step on site: floor malting, mashing, fermentation, distillation (2. 5 times for the eponymous spirit) and bottling. Stills remain partly direct-fired. Once whisky's world capital, Campbeltown today counts only three distilleries; Springbank is its historic guardian and the closest the industry has to a craft-scale operating museum.
